

Gina Lavery, M.C.P.

Senior Vice President & Principal

Gina Lavery is a senior vice president and principal of Econsult Solutions, Inc. (ESI). Gina has led a range of projects for ESI, primarily focused on urban planning, real estate, transportation, higher education, and public policy—particularly where these areas intersect with economic development. This work has included developing economic and fiscal impact studies to support major development projects, providing advisory services on incentive programs and public financing for private and public sector clients across the U.S., and supplying market insights for clients making real estate decisions.

Areas of Expertise

Economic Development

Transportation Planning

Real Estate

Public Policy

Higher Education Policy

Spatial Analysis

Data Visualization

Education

M.C.P.,
University of Pennsylvania
2016

B.A., Political Science and
European History
University of Pennsylvania
2009

Experience

Prior to joining ESI, Gina was a research analyst for Jones Lang La Salle, where she was responsible for market research and analysis within the Greater Philadelphia commercial real estate market. From 2009-2016, Gina worked at the University of Pennsylvania, in various roles within the Office of Government and Community Affairs. At Penn, she monitored legislative and policy developments within city government, and implemented a strategic communications and outreach plan to advocate for the University's interests with local government officials and to find opportunities to communicate its economic and social impact in the region.

Professional, Corporate, Civic Leadership

A native of Philadelphia, Gina is actively engaged in several organizations including ULI Philadelphia, LAI Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Real Estate Council, and Commercial Real Estate Women (CREW). Gina also serves on the board of the Riverfront North Partnership.

Contact

Lavery@econsultsolutions.com