

Richard Lobron

Senior Advisor

Rich Lobron is a Principal Consultant for LCL Advisors, Inc., holding experience as a senior advisor and C-Level executive with various public and private sector enterprises in five industries – transportation, manufacturing, health care, higher education and government. Rich is also currently an Adjunct Professor of International Business at the Fox School of Business of Temple University in Philadelphia and is affiliated with Penn State University’s Larson Transportation Institute, serving as a Founding Board Member of the Rail Transportation Engineering program and for which he visited the Democratic Republic of the Congo to craft methods through which that nation can enhance its capacity to develop infrastructure. Rich’s work has been published in several academic and industry journals on topics related to international business, innovative finance, mobility as a service, cybersecurity and payment systems.

Mr. Lobron has directed every mode of transportation – air, marine, highway, mass transit and all forms of rail – freight & passenger - light, heavy, commuter and interstate, through service as a senior executive with Amtrak, the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, the Metropolitan Transit Authority of Harris County, TX, Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority and Consolidated Rail Corp. Rich has testified before the US Senate Infrastructure Investment Committee to recommend financial tactics for addressing the nation’s long-term infrastructure financing needs. He also testified before the U.S. Surface Transportation Board on behalf of Class 1 Railroads and negotiated at the U.S. Labor Relations Board to resolve longstanding rail bargaining unit disputes.

In the manufacturing arena, Rich served as CEO for VenTek International, an electronics equipment and systems manufacturer where he resolved concerns on business development, design, development and delivery of new technical systems, as well as service as Director of Business Development for Conduent, Inc., a manufacturer of payment systems.
